

WILL NOT RUN AWAY

President Zelaya Has no Intention of Leaving Nicaragua

SO DECLARES RODRIGUES

Rumors Are Unfounded—Persistent Reports of Hostility to Americans Also Branded as Untrue.

Washington, Nov. 30.—It is denied at the Nicaraguan legation here that President Zelaya is about to leave that country, as a result of the revolution he now faces. The legation claims to be in daily communication with Managua.

"It is now quite plain to the impartial public," said Charge d'Affaires Rodriguez yesterday, "that the reports given to the press by the revolutionist agents are, to say the least, gross exaggerations."

"The legation has been in constant communication with Managua by cable, and there is no truth whatsoever in the report that the lines have been cut in the interior."

"There is no truth, either in the news concerning the capture by the rebels of the towns of Chinandega and El Viejo, and the report of executions and imprisonments in Managua is absolutely without foundation. On the contrary, the capital is as calm as can be possible under the circumstances, the congress is holding its ordinary sessions and there is no reason to fear disloyalty from the supporters of President Zelaya."

Senator Rodriguez says that the revolution is at a standstill. Estrada has in his power the towns of Bluefields, Rama and Cabol. Greytown is put down as in dispute. Denial is made that the revolutionists have gained a footing on the Pacific coast.

"It is false that Zelaya is not friendly toward the Americans residing in Nicaragua," said Senator Rodriguez. "Americans hold the best concessions in Nicaragua."

He added that the processes relating to the execution of Gross and Cannon, the Americans, were on their way to the legation and that they would show that they had been executed in an entirely legal way.

GO TO THE GOVERNOR.

Charges Against Coler Like Those Against Ahearn and Haffen.

New York, Nov. 30.—The report on the administration of Bird S. Coler, president of the borough of Brooklyn, made by the commissioners of accounts following an examination of the affairs of the borough president's office, will be forwarded to Governor Hughes.

Mayor McClellan, to whom the report, embodying certain charges against President Coler, was presented, declared yesterday, "I will say," he added, "that the charges are exactly similar to those made in the case of Borough Presidents Ahearn and Haffen."

Borough Presidents Ahearn of Manhattan and Haffen of the Bronx were removed by the governor on charges presented by local commissioners of accounts.

Good Blood

Means good health, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has an unapproached record as a blood-purifier.

It effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla, but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients. There is no real substitute for it. It is good, just as good, you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. In small, neat form or in chocolate tablets known as Sarsaparilla.

NO KIDNEY TROUBLE OR BLADDER MISERY

Backache Vanishes and Your Out-of-order Kidneys Act Fine After the First Few Doses.

The most effective and harmless way to cure backache and regulate out-of-order kidneys or end bladder trouble, is to take several doses of Pappe's Diuretic.

You will distinctly feel that your kidneys and urinary organs are being cleansed, healed and vitalized, and all the disagreeable symptoms, such as backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatism, and burning pains, inflamed or swollen eyelids, irritability, sleeplessness, or suppressed, painful, or frequent urination (especially at night) will be other distresses leaving after taking the first few doses.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or rheumatism, begin taking this harmless preparation as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a five-cent treatment of Pappe's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pappe, Thompson & Co. of Cincinnati is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

You may be miserable or worried another moment with a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder misery. All this goes after you start taking Pappe's Diuretic, and in a few days you feel and know that your kidneys, liver and urinary system are healthy, clean and normal, and all danger passed.

Accept only Pappe's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store—anywhere in the world.

dent Coler, was presented, as declared yesterday, "I will say," he added, "that the charges are exactly similar to those made in the case of Borough Presidents Ahearn and Haffen."

Borough Presidents Ahearn of Manhattan and Haffen of the Bronx were removed by the governor on charges presented by local commissioners of accounts.

MAKE ARTIFICIAL ICE.

Why the Trust Abandoned the Natural Fields.

New York, Nov. 30.—Philadelphia ice dealers were witnesses yesterday at the trial here of the American Ice company, charged with violation of the anti-monopoly law. They testified for the defense in support of its contention that it had abandoned so many of its natural ice harvesting plants, chiefly because of the largely increased use of artificial ice.

Testifying as an expert, Patrick J. McGarvey, for many years manager of the Union Ice company of Philadelphia, declared that sixty per cent. of the ice sold in Philadelphia is artificial. William P. Severin, another Philadelphia ice man, testified that his figures showed that the manufacture of ice in Philadelphia had increased from sixty tons daily in 1890 to 3,450 tons daily now.

MURDERED BY HER LOVER.

Daughter Attempted to Save Father's Life, But Lost Her Own.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 30.—Miss Etta Barba, the daughter of a mill owner here, was stabbed to death last night by her lover, Oscar Savage. Savage had been drinking and Barba tried to eject him from the house, when he turned upon the girl's father with a knife.

Miss Barba rushed between her father and her savage lover, and, blind with rage, he drove his knife into her heart. She fell at his feet and died instantly. When the police arrived, Savage had lifted the dead girl to a bed and was sitting by her, holding her hand and vainly trying to call her back to life.

MUST PREVENT BOXING BOUT.

Governor Hughes Warns Albany County Authorities.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Governor Hughes has written District Attorney Sanford and Sheriff Beach of Albany county, that having received information that the Knickerbocker Athletic club of Albany had planned a twenty-round prize fight to take place at Bull's Head tavern on the Troy road on Dec. 2, he would hold the authorities responsible for any violation of the law.

"It is desirable," says the governor, "that the authorities should co-operate to compel obedience to the law and to secure the apprehension and conviction of any person violating it."

GENUINE ECZEMA REMEDY

New Remedy That Cures Eczema Quickly.

D. F. Davis sold hundreds of jars of Hekara in the last few weeks, and although he offered to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied purchaser, not one jar was returned.

While this is surprising in itself, yet the most marvelous thing is the reports of chronic cases of eczema that have been cured by this simple skin food. People who have suffered with scales, sores and even bleeding itching have found relief in Hekara.

No matter where the eczema, pimples or other breaking out occurs, whether on the face, hands, legs or body, the application of Hekara will give quick relief, and even the worst or most chronic cases will be cured in a short time.

You can buy a liberal sized jar at a very low price, 25c, and with every package goes D. F. Davis' guarantee to refund the money if it is not satisfactory. Larger size, 50c.

NO DELAY FOR SUGAR MEN

Trial for Customs Fraud to Proceed

WILL NOT GRANT MOTION

No Serious Inflammation of the Public. Bendoragel's Plea to Quash the Indictment Was Rejected.

New York, Nov. 30.—Another fight for delay, which was started in the United States circuit court, criminal branch, yesterday morning, when the seven men charged with sugar weighing frauds on the docks of the American sugar refining company at Williamsburg were called for trial, resulted in a victory for the prosecution.

The indictments charged the seven defendants with conspiracy to defraud the government, and they are to be tried before United States Circuit Judge James M. Martin of Vermont, who has been called into this jurisdiction for the purpose of this trial. The government is represented by former United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson and his assistant, W. T. Denison, who have been specially retained for the sugar trust prosecutions.

The defendants are James P. Bendoragel, the former superintendent of the sugar trust's big Williamsburg plant; Oliver Spitzer, former dock superintendent at the Williamsburg plant; and Thomas Kehoe, Jean M. Vojtek, Patrick J. Hennessy, John R. Coyle and Richard A. Boyle, former assistant weighers in the customs service. Vojtek is now confined in the French hospital by illness, and his counsel made a plea to have his trial separated from the others. Mr. Stimson asked that the ordinary legal proof demanded in such cases be submitted.

Much interest centers in these cases, for the reason that Bendoragel, who held his $20,000 job at the Williamsburg refinery of the sugar trust until the day before his indictment a few weeks ago, is the largest fish to be caught in the government's net thus far, so far as criminal prosecutions are concerned, growing out of the sugar weighing frauds. The other men who now come up for trial were all subordinates, although Spitzer and the five former assistant weighers all constituted a sort of a little weighing station on the Williamsburg docks and were commonly referred to as "the big six."

Some of these men, it is known, have talked rather freely to the government's investigators and there have been many reports that this testimony involved men higher up even than Bendoragel in the former organization of the sugar trust. Mr. Stimson, however, and his assistants have given no indication thus far as to the possibility of confessions from any of the defendants who are now going to trial, and this uncertainty has contributed largely to the interest with which the public is watching the progress of the case.

Clarence K. Lewin, counsel for Spitzer on behalf of himself and Henry M. Coheane, who is representing the other defendants, entered pleas of "not guilty" in all the cases, with leave to interpose a motion to quash the indictments should he decide to make such a motion at a subsequent time.

Then the jurors drawn for the trial and the witnesses being examined, Mr. Lewin began an argument for delay, asking that the court postpone the trial until a later date on account of what he termed the present inflated state of the public mind, which in his opinion would prevent justice being done to the defendants. This argument was still in progress when the noon recess was taken.

Mr. Lewin, in elaborating his contention on the state of public opinion on the subject of the sugar trust trials, accused the government of having conducted a campaign of education through the columns of The Outlook against the defendants. "Each time the indictments against these defendants were announced for trial, the guilt of the defendants was pre-announced in the headlines and in editorial. We have here three newspapers, containing extracts."

"Will the court be compelled to read all of these?" asked Judge Martin.

"No," said Mr. Lewin, "a mere bird's-eye view of them will suffice."

Henry L. Stimson, the government's special counsel, came back hard at his antagonist in the matter of the publicity campaign. "I wish to say," said Mr. Stimson, "that when the trial against the employees of these defendants, the American Sugar Refining company, to recover a penalty, took place last February, there was no public clamor. After a month's trial, few readers of the press were even aware of the result, and many inquiries were made at the district attorney's office. I take full responsibility for having turned over to The Outlook the official records of that trial, so that they could have thereon an article setting forth the essential facts. Since that time, when these trials are coming up, I have deprecated too much publicity and told the gentlemen of the press that clamor might make difficult the trial of the defendants. In any case, the animus of the press was not against these defendants, but against their employers, 'the man higher up' as it is commonly called."

Judge Martin was not particularly impressed with the argument based on the supposed inflated state of the public mind. "Unless it be shown," he said, "that a systematic effort has been made to reach the jury, I cannot see that the clamor of the press has anything to do with this matter. The press arguments, as I understand them, were directed against government officials and rightly so. Rather than against the defendants in the employ of the American Sugar Refining company."

This disposal of the proposition to postpone and thereafter George W. Maclellan, who is in the case as counsel for Bendoragel, moved to quash the indictment on account of certain technicalities in its language. His argument was substantially the same as that which Judge Hough dismissed last week. Judge Martin, when the court adjourned after the noon recess, denied the motion to quash the indictment and ordered that the trial proceed.

All Who Would Enjoy

good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living right. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

SUGAR BREAKS BADLY.

Market Opened Strong, But Slump of 6 1/2 Points Turns Things Around.

New York, Nov. 30.—After a weak opening, the market turned strong and showed a tendency to go higher, until sugar broke at 6 1/2 points. This upset the whole list and the market closed weak with changes ranging from a gain of 1 point in Rock Island Preferred to a loss of 7 points in American Sugar.

PUBLIC PRINTER SUMMONED.

Must Explain to Civil Service Commission.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The Civil Service commission has summoned Public Printer Donnelly to appear before it on Dec. 15 to show cause why he placed a charge of insubordination against John W. Rodgers, an employee of the government printing office, who, although told by his foreman that he could not be spared, took leave with pay which was due him, and absented himself from his work for three days in November last to go home and vote.

On his return to work he was notified by his superior that he had been charged with "insubordination," had been fined $100 and was to be discharged. Later, on an appeal to Representative Bingham, of whom he was a constituent, Mr. Rodgers was reinstated, but the charge of insubordination was not withdrawn. Mr. Bingham maintained, it is said, that Rodgers had a legal right to absent himself.

WED STANDING BY COFFIN.

Miss Juanita C. Howard Obeys Father's Wish.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Standing by the coffin containing the body of her father, James Howard, formerly secretary of the Washington Park club, and one of the best known horsemen of the country, Miss Juanita C. Howard was married yesterday to Irving Herriot, an attorney.

The last wish of Mr. Howard, who was fatally injured by an automobile last week, was that his daughter should be married in his presence. Before the license could be obtained, Mr. Howard, who was known as the "father of the American steeplechase," had become unconscious. He died in that condition. The funeral service was set for yesterday afternoon.

Miss Howard and her affianced husband stood beside the open casket and were joined in matrimony. Rev. J. W. Nicely, who later officiated at the funeral service, reading the marriage lines.

NOW SOLD IN AMERICA

In Less Than Three Years, Parisian Sage, the Splendid Hair Tonic, is Sold All Over America.

There is a reason for the phenomenal sale of Parisian Sage in the United States during the past three years. And the reason is plain to all: Parisian Sage does just what it is advertised to do.

Ask the Red Cross Pharmacy about it. They will tell you that they rigidly guarantee it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair or itching scalp in two weeks, or money back.

There is no reason whatever why any man or woman should fail to take advantage of the above generous offer. But one thing that has made Parisian Sage so famous is its peculiar power to turn the harsh, unattractive hair that many women possess into luxuriant and radiant hair in a short time. Women of refinement in the country over are using it and it never disappoints.

Sold everywhere, and in Barre by the Red Cross Pharmacy, for 50 cents a large bottle.

KILLED SHERIFF AND MOTHER

Fatally Wounds Two Where He Sought Shelter

THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

Prisoner on Parole Creates Day of Terror in Ohio Town—Pursued by posse Before End Came.

Greenville, Ohio, Nov. 30.—After killing his mother, Mrs. Isaac Weaver, Deputy Sheriff William Farra, and probably fatally wounding Mr. and Mrs. Levi Minnich in taking possession of their home in an effort to hold off a pursuing posse, Clyde Weaver, 34 years old, committed suicide in the Minnich home. His body, with a bullet hole in the temple, was found under a bed in the Minnich home when the policemen entered, after his fire had ceased abruptly. He had used his last cartridge to end a day of carnage in Franklin township, nine miles east of here.

Weaver, who was released on parole from the Dayton workhouse, on condition that he stay outside Ohio, returned from Illinois last week, and on Saturday threatened the lives of the family of James Hagner, a neighbor. Sheriff Haber and his deputy arrived yesterday to arrest Weaver. He asked permission to change his clothes, and then from his upstairs room defied the sheriff. Mrs. Weaver, while pleading with the sheriff, was killed by a bullet through her heart, fired at the sheriff.

While the sheriff was organizing a posse, Farra was killed by a bullet from Weaver's revolver, and the latter, stopping to kill Farra with another bullet, died in the sheriff's buggy. He commanded an automobile and led the posse to the Minnich home, where Weaver, trying, "Give me shelter," fired a bullet, breaking Mr. Minnich's arm and entering her chest, while another penetrated Minnich's intestines. Both probably will die. Barricaded himself in the house, Weaver held off the posse till only one cartridge remained, and then he killed himself.

UP THE GIANT'S TOOTH.

Young Woman Describes Hardships in Mountain Climbing.

Climbing mountains does not seem to be an agreeable recreation, to judge from the experiences of Mme. Stella Croissant, who has just ascended the Giant's Tooth, one of the loftiest peaks of the Alps. She had the pleasure of writing her name on the Mantle of the Virgin, which crowns the peak, but what other satisfaction she derived from the exploit is not clear.

Mme. Croissant is a young woman only twenty-two years of age, but her youthful vigor seems to have failed to make the rigors of mountain climbing a pleasure. She tells of muscles strained to the breaking point, limbs almost dislocated, cold, fatigue and the humors of the guide, for "the guide in the high mountains is king. You must obey him and smile, whatever happens." The party crept over slopes of soft snow, placing their feet in the footprints of the guide and trying to make themselves as light as possible, for they knew that if they dislodged the snow they would be swept to the bottom of the abyss. They were suspended among the crags "like spiders in their webs." Once Mme. Croissant let go of the rope by which she was drawing herself up to a ledge and hung like a package over the void. She was not afraid, she said, but could bear the guide swearing.

The ascent took a couple of days, and after such strenuous labors the climbers might be expected to indulge in a little rest. "But where rest?" asks Mme. Croissant. "The summit is narrow and bristling with jagged points, and one is cold there. One freezes in the most absolute sense of the word. The wind found no obstacles except ourselves, and how it plays with such obstacles! If you consider how cold it must be in those altitudes where one suffers from the rarefaction of the air you will realize how the wind penetrated the meshes of my sweater and made my clothes freeze to my skin. The guide was right when he told me to put on several undershirts. So we emptied a flask of eau de vie and said farewell to the summit."

The descent seems to have been as disagreeable as the ascent. It was horribly cold, and when the party reached a place where it was possible to rest and eat, the guide hurried them on before the pangs of hunger were half satisfied. All had been fasting since daybreak, and it was then 3 o'clock, but they were behind time, the guide said, and the shades of night must not find them in the high mountains.

There was nothing to do but to obey the guide, so the party moved on in silence. "My feet moved automatically," said Mme. Croissant. "I climbed, I jumped, with only my eyes living in my whole body. I went on thus, I don't know how long, until my strength failed completely and I fainted. They gave me water and spirits. After an instant I revived, and, taking the arm of the guide, I went off at a mad pace. I have the same memory of that stage of the journey as one might have of a delirium. My movements had the strange sureness of the somnambulist walking on the edge of a roof. My foot did not stumble or slip. I went, I went. It was a vertigo, a dance of the bones broken on the rocks of ice."

WHITE MOUNTAIN REGION.

Naturally Forest Country, Says United States Forest Service.

"The White mountain region is naturally a forest country," says Philip W. Ayres, in an article on the Commercial Importance of the White Mountain Forests, which the U. S. Forest Service has just published in circular form.

"The rocky soil, steep slopes and high elevation prevent the use of the land for agriculture, except in a few favored places. The forests that cover the mountains are partly primitive, partly culled, and in places cut clean by the axe. In many places they have been injured severely by fire. Their resources are of great and far-reaching value, for their use extends not only to Vermont, New England, but also, in the form of newspaper manufactured from spruce and in other manufactured products, throughout the entire country."

The president widespread advance in the price of timber products has been felt throughout the land. It has already affected directly all forms of business that deal primarily with wood, such as the building trades, the woodworking factories, the saw and mill props, and indirectly other businesses, such as farming, in which the cost of a barn or a wagon is much greater than heretofore. It is confidently asserted that "the rise in the price of lumber which marks the opening of the present century is the beginning of a greater and more rapid rise which is to come, and the suffering which will result from the progressive failure of our timber was but faintly foreshadowed by the recent temporary scarcity of coal."

There has been reckless waste of the vast forest wealth of the nation, which is still going on, but changes for the better are being made in important directions. The more thoughtful lumbermen see the issue clearly and have begun to treat the forest more conservatively. Some have bought up large tracts against the coming scarcity. The government has established national forests in the West, which will in part meet the ever-growing demand for timber in that section of the country.

The even flow of water from mountain forests is of almost importance. Commerce and manufacture depend upon it. The White mountains form the great watershed of New England. Five of the most important rivers of New England, each having remarkable water power, take their rise in the heights of northern New Hampshire and in portions of two adjoining counties in Maine. These rivers are the Connecticut, the Merrimack, the Saco, the Androscoggin and the Kennebec. The growth of many of the most progressive and populous cities in New England has depended upon the development of water powers of these rivers, so that it may be said that the financial well-being of New England hinges upon them. Moreover, each summer the mountain forests afford rest and recreation to many thousands of people from all parts of the country."
